

Important Information about changes in your Repeat Medication

Dear Patient,

As part of our care for you we are reviewing repeat prescriptions.

Some prescription items may have changed to an unbranded (or to the NHS more cost-effective branded) version of exactly the same drug by a different name.

Your dose will remain exactly the same and you should not experience any difference in effect or any adverse effects.

You may notice a change in the appearance of your new medicine, which does not affect the action of the drug in any way.

Your medication records will be changed automatically, so please order your next prescription in the usual way. It will help the NHS to save money, if you could use up any remaining medication first and then continue with the new one.
